Kelly Toys with
CHRIS COLUMBUS

Joe Kelly played for four rounds with Chris Columbus and won a decision in the main event of the boxing show at the Yeoman hall last night. Columbus didn't even make a good sparring partner for Kelly.
John Brown forced Kid Reddy to quit in the second round of their bout. Body blows wounded Reddy. Kid Juarez and Johnny Edwards, two overweight sluggers, swung wildly at each other for three rounds. Edwards got the decision. Young Tuffell and Irish Cleary played with each other for three rounds. In the second round they stopped hitting each other by mutual agreement. Tuffell was given the decision.

WOMEN'S FORUM COMMITTEES

Tonight at 7:30 the committees appointed by Dr. Jessie Russell, general chairman of the Women's Forum to be held at the chamber of commerce next Tuesday evening, will meet at the chamber of commerce to complete arrangements for that dinner and entertainment.

LAST DAY FOR PETITIONS
Members of the chamber of commerce are reminded that Saturday, November 11, is the last day on which to file petitions for candidates for the disincorporation of the chamber. None will be received after that date.

ARMISTICE DAY BOUNTS FOR THE LEGION

To Be Staged at Modern
Woodmen of America
Hall, Saturday

The Modern Woodmen of America are staging a boxing show in Glendale at the American Legion hall Saturday night. There will be six bouts and a jui jitsu wrestling match for the benefit of the American Legion.
Of great interest to local fans is a return match bout between Joe Kelly and Ted Southern. Kelly won a close decision over Southern two weeks ago.
Walter Dodge and Jack Price will tangle for four rounds. This promises to be the fastest fight of the night. Both Price and Dodge are like whirlwinds.
Johnny Myers, the fighting freeman and Chick Watson of Glendale are scheduled for the main bout. The preliminaries will start promptly at seven.

EXCHANGE CLUB HEARS FROM KIDS

Postmaster Jackson Reports
Youngsters Are Writing to Santa Claus

WILL INVESTIGATE

Meeting Is Well Attended and Good Program
Is Given

Some of the city's most worthy citizens were present Wednesday at the meeting of the Exchange club of Glendale held at the Broadway Inn. Several guests were also present, among them were Dr. T. C. Noshie, and Harry A. James. Dr. Noshie has recently come from Kenosha, Wis., and the many advantages offered by this community has compelled him to take up his abode here.
Mr. James, of course, is well-known here. He contributed quite lively to the program by giving an Englishman's version of a baseball game. This little sketch really has to be heard to be appreciated.
Everyone knows that Captain Jackson has a great big heart, but none realized he was so generous until yesterday. To the kiddies of Glendale the postmaster will be known as Santa Claus this Christmas. He received many letters from the youngsters telling as only children can what they want Santa to bring them. So many of these requests came in that a special committee was appointed by President W. B. Kelly to investigate each and everyone of them, and if the case proves to be a worthy one this committee is to see that those making the request will not lose faith in Santa Claus. The committee includes Messrs. Jessup, King, Bell, Waring and Harness.

CITY COUNCIL HOLDS SPECIAL SEWER MEETING

Invites Fifty Citizens Who Instruct Employment of "Competent Engineer"

A step in the solution of the sewage problem of Glendale was taken at a special meeting of the city council and about fifty invited citizens held in the city hall Wednesday night. At the meeting it was decided on motion of W. E. Hewitt that the city council employ a competent engineer to make a complete survey of the sewage disposal situation in Glendale.
The engineer, who then moved the council take immediate steps to employ a competent engineer to make the required sewerage survey and that on the recommendation of this engineer the council put the sewerage question directly before the residents of Glendale in the form of an election. The election would include a bond issue for the erection of a plant or plants or system if recommended. The motion passed unanimously.
At the meeting held Wednesday night there were possibly fifty residents of Glendale present, who were specially invited to discuss the sewer problem with the council.
The idea of the council in calling the meeting was to put the problem before these citizens. Talks on the subject were made by Nathan Newby, Alex. Mitchell, Mr. Burns, A. T. Gray, Dr. Jessie A. Russell, A. L. Baird, Mr. Goudie, L. H. Wilson, Dr. Mabry, W. E. Hewitt, Col. Everington, Mr. Gulick and J. G. Huntley.

RAINFALL TOTALS
1.38 INCHES HERE

The rain gauge of T. W. Preston on North Jackson street shows that during the 24 hours preceding 3 o'clock this morning, 1.18 inches of rain fell, the total for the storm to that date being 1.38 inches. Since 8 a. m. of an inch has fallen. The total for the season up to 8 a. m. was 1.58 inches against 1.08 inches last year at this time.
The rain fell gently with intervals between showers so it could all be taken up by the soil instead of washing, and will for that reason be very beneficial to the ranches and orchards of the district.

By GERTRUDE GIBBS
Glendale's celebration of Armistice Day last year was heralded from one end of the United States to the other. This year, with the affair better organized, the effort will be to make it a more perfect tribute and pleasure to the men whose sacrifices for their country and the world culminated in the glad day we celebrate. Undoubtedly the festivities with which the day will be garlanded will be a deep sense of what it means and of the tremendous debt we owe the survivors of Armistice Day.

The marshal of the day is Comrade Don Nicholas, his aides being Comrades Jesse Smith, Emil Klefer and Robert Plume.

Comrades Normal Hayhurst and Ralph Miles have general charge of the ball games.

As the program indicates, the day will begin with a parade which will assemble at Broadway at 9:30. It will be arranged in four divisions, designated as "Patriotic," "Civil," "Fraternals" and "Schools."

Besides the assisting committee already mentioned, Marshal Nicholas will be assisted by Comrades Don Packer, Wittmeyer, Allan Bullis, Louis Roberts, Richardson D. White, and C. W. Schwitters, in the handling of the parade.

Division No. 1 will form on Broadway just east of Belmont. Before it to clear the way will go a squad of traffic officers on motorcycles, from the city police force. Then will come the colors under guard, the band of the American Legion, members of the Glendale post of the American Legion in marching order, visiting gobs from San Pedro, in marching order; disabled veterans of the World War in automobiles; Women's auxiliary of the American Legion; Lester Meyer chapter of American War Mothers in automobiles; Machine Gun Company M. and Headquarters Company of the National Guard in uniform, with full equipment; Glendale chapter, American Red Cross; N. P. Banks post, G. A. R., in automobiles; Women's Relief Corps of N. P. Banks post; Camp 22, Sons of Veterans; Auxiliary to Sons of Veterans; Daughters of Veterans; local post, Spanish-American War Veterans; British War Veterans; Boy Scouts of Verdugo Hills district; Girl Scouts of America; General Richard Grady chapter, D. A. R., and other patriotic organizations belonging in this section.

Section No. 2, civic organizations, will form on Belmont, its head resting on Broadway. It will probably be headed by members of the city council and in it will be represented the fire department and perhaps other departments of the city government. Here will be found the various clubs such as the Chamber of Commerce, Credit Men's association, Glendale Rotary club, and the long list of improvement associations which have been linked together under a federation, such as the San Fernando Boulevard Improvement association, Glendale Advancement association; West Glendale Improvement association; Foothill Improvement association; Verdugo Woods Improvement association, Sierra Avenue association, etc., and the many clubs such as the Tuesday Afternoon club, Business and Professional Women's club, Thursday Afternoon club, etc.

Section 3, composed of fraternal organizations will form on Cedar with its head resting on Broadway. It will include the Elks' lodge, all of the Masonic orders, Knights of Pythias, Pythian Sisters, Odd Fellows, Carleton Rebekahs, Knights of Columbus, and other fraternal organizations.

Section 4, of which Comrade Richardson D. White will have general charge, will be composed of representatives of the schools of the city and district. It will probably be headed by the high school trustees and members of the board of education and will include besides the school bands, and companies of marching children, representatives of the twelve Parent-Teacher associations, led by officers of the P. T. A. Federation.

There will be at least one band with each division, the bands already secured being the American Legion band, a band from San Pedro, which will come with the gobs from the battleships and their football teams, the high school band, and possibly the band of the Pasadena Military Academy.

The parade is expected to be ready to start by 10 o'clock, the line of march being from Belmont to Brand on Broadway, north on Brand to Wilson, countermarching south on Brand to Colorado and to the high school grounds where at two minutes after 11 o'clock, one volley to the colors will be fired by a squad to be detailed for the purpose.

Representatives of all the organizations which have uniforms are expected to wear them. The Elks have already announced that their representatives will be in convention dress and colors. Members of the Glendale Commandery will be in full regalia, boy and girl scouts will be in costume, and every organization is expected to carry a banner designating what its contingent represents, also to carry an American flag.

The aim will be to make the parade more representative if possible than last year, but to cut it down so it will not be so unwieldy; also to have as many marching bands as possible. Civic organizations, particularly of women, are permitted to be represented by automobiles which they will furnish, the committee undertaking to provide autos only for the disabled veterans, the G. A. R. and Women's Relief Corps, and the Red Cross.

Arrangements have been made for the entertainment of gobs for dinner and supper.

As the program states, football games will begin on Moyle field at 1:15, the preliminary being a game for the lightweight championship of the Central league, followed by the big event of the day, the play-off between the teams of the U. S. S. California and Vestal. Tickets, which have been placed at $1, are likely to be at a premium and should be secured in advance. A feature in connection of special interest will be the presence of the 200 sailors from the two battleships who are coming to participate in the parade and to root for their respective teams in a contest which it is admitted will be one of the hardest fought football games ever played on Southern California gridirons.

As a preliminary, Coach Butterfield's midgets will meet the Citrus lightweight championship of the Central league. This promises to be an exciting affair. Neither team have suffered defeat. Butterfield is confident that the fitness of the local boys will prove too much for the slower Citrus squad. This game will start promptly at 1:30.

Beachers, borrowed from southern branch of the University of California, have been erected on Moyle field. Coach Hayhurst estimated that they will accommodate 4000 people.

The navy lineup:
Glendale Jeter Citrus Ruelas
Putnam G. Burner
Morrison G. Hayden
Leyhe T. Beatty
Kelley T. Lopez
McIvor E. Hadley
White E. Hosfeldt
Shuler R. Kumm
Roberts R. Williams
Walsh O. King
Nagel F. Franchise
The first evening event especially designed for the entertainment of visiting soldiers and sailors from San Pedro and representatives of the American Legion, will be the boxing match at Legion hall on East Broadway, from 7 to 9. After that all Armistice Day guests as well as citizens of Glendale will be entertained with dancing at the Elks' clubhouse on East Colorado, from 9 to 12 p. m.

year, was also re-elected. It was announced that Miss Winnifred Travers has been selected to serve as office secretary of the organization, which position was created at yesterday's meeting.
At this session E. P. Hayward, W. A. Horn and Harry M. Miller were elected to positions on the governing board of the organization, which position Mr. Hayward held during the past two years. The holdover members of this board are R. D. King, J. A. Endicott, A. M. Yale, C. B. Guthrie, C. D. Thom and Arthur Campbell.
The election of the officers and members of the governing board was carried out with the very finest of spirit among the members and all of these present seemed satisfied with the corps of leaders chosen.

It was announced that the National Realty board is making a strenuous effort to stop those outside of the board from using the word "realtor" in connection with their advertisements and on their literature. It was stated that the courts have upheld the organization in prosecution against those using this name illegally and it was the disposition of those present that any real estate operator in Glendale who is not a member of the board and who uses the name should be prosecuted.
On account of a large number of the board agreeing to take part in the Armistice Day parade with other organizations it was decided that the Realty Board should not take part in the parade as a body.

SOUTH GLENDALE MARKETS MARK ARMISTICE

Robert Danner Reports All
Meat and Grocery Stores
Will Observe Day

In accordance with the observance of Armistice Day, every store and market in South Glendale will be closed, Saturday, November 11, according to a report received from Robert Danner, proprietor of the meat market in Owen & Son's grocery store. All patrons are urged to buy today and tomorrow for Saturday and Sunday.
Those who will close include Owen & Son, Gateway Market, Bradshaw's grocery, Connor's Market, Mueller's Market and Tropico Groceries and several others.
The merchants got together and decided that this was the only thing to do, in honoring the boys who gave their lives in the World War, in fact they felt that this was only a small matter.

MAJORITIES PILE UP ON MEASURES BEFORE PEOPLE

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—California's election returns today had simmered down largely to a question of majorities. Late returns continued to pile up a majority against the water and power bill and, at the same time, reduced somewhat the margin against the Wright prohibition enforcement act.

From the returns available, the following propositions seemed to have passed and are now before the people:

- No. 1—Veterans' validating act.
- No. 3—Veterans' welfare bond act.
- No. 9—Relating to composition of municipal boards.
- No. 12—State budget.
- No. 16—Chiropractic.
- No. 20—Osteopathy.
- The following apparently have been defeated in addition to the Wright act and the power bill:
No. 4—Land settlement act.
- No. 5—Housing act.
- No. 6—Title insurance.
- No. 10—Taxation of publicly owned utilities.
- No. 11—Regulation of publicly owned utilities.
- No. 24—Regulating practice of law.
- No. 25—Judges pro tempore.
- No. 28—Visitation.
- No. 29—Land franchise taxation.
- No. 30—Franchises.
- The following were still in doubt owing to meager returns:
No. 7—Exempting veterans from taxation.
- No. 9—Municipal chapters.
- No. 13—Judges' salaries.
- No. 14—Local taxation.
- No. 17—Use of streams.
- No. 18—Municipal public works.
- No. 21—Prohibiting special laws.
- No. 22—Absent voters.
- No. 23—Deposit of public moneys.
- No. 28—School districts.

RAIL LABOR BOARD MAY BE ENDED

Union Officials Count on New Strength in Congress to Abolish Organization

WANT NEWLANDS ACT
Administration May Modify
System of Governing Conditions

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Abolition of the railway labor board was seen as a certainty by labor officials here today as a result of the election upheaval.
Confidence was expressed in union quarters that the program for putting "teeth" in the board cannot now be carried out in a new congress where progressives hold the sway of power.
Instead, the administration may move to solve the problem in the establishment of a new and somewhat modified system for governing labor conditions on the carriers of the nation. This action might be taken before the new congress convenes March 4, and thereby forego any further conflict.

Labor, however, will demand complete abandonment of the project and ask the aid of its new born strength in congress to re-establish the old Newlands act for establishment of a mere board of mediation and conciliation to govern industry.

Republicans continued today to cling to control of the next congress. Available figures early today showed the house stood: Republicans, 220; democrats, 210; socialists, 1; independent, 1; with three scattered districts not heard from.

In Utah, Senator King was leading in early morning. Senator Miles Poindexter, Washington, was ousted by C. C. Dill, democrat, and Senator Frank B. Kellogg, Minnesota, was beaten by Henrik Shipstead, a d. j., farmer-labor-non-partisan candidate.

The sweeping character of the democratic overturn appears to equal the republican landslide of 1920. If that is borne out, the democrats stand to win in 1924 by the most stupendous majorities ever polled in this country.

In the senatorial fight, the republicans lost nine states and possibly ten. The democrats lost but two, Ohio and Nebraska, with Utah still in doubt.

The republicans held only eight normally republican states in the senatorial fights, while the democrats held twelve of theirs.

Progressive republican senatorial candidates survived when other republicans were beaten.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge now appears certain of beginning his sixth term in the senate, after the bitterest political battle in the state's history.

Senator Reel, Missouri, also appeared certain of re-election.

The new and enlarged progressive bloc in the next senate which may dictate the senate's legislative trend will include: Borah, Idaho; Johnson, California; Brookhart, Iowa; Norris, Nebraska; La Follette, Wisconsin; Norbeck, South Dakota; Shipstead, Minnesota; Howell, Nebraska, and Ladd, North Dakota.

The election of William E. Sweet, liberal democrat, as governor of Colorado was assured today. The remainder of the democratic state ticket was defeated, apparently, with the exception of the office of attorney general and superintendent of public instruction.

United States marshals stood guard over Cook county, Illinois, election ballots today. A detachment of special armed deputies took possession of the ballot boxes in the city hall after democrats charged the incumbent republicans with scheming to rob them of their victories.

Glendale Team Wins
From Santa Monica

A big soccer ball game was played on the intermediate field, Wilson avenue, Tuesday afternoon, between the first teams of that school and of Santa Monica, in which the Glendale players won with a score of 7 to 0.

At the same time, volleyball games were played by girls of the midwest teams of the Glendale and Wilson intermediates, at Glendale avenue, the Wilson avenue team winning 2 to 1.

BILL TO REDUCE COST OF CEMENT IS ENDORSED

Local Carpenters' Union Endorse Measure Before Legislature

An act that will be introduced at the next session of the California State Legislature, provides for the manufacture, sale and distribution of cement and cement products by the Department of Public Works; defining the powers and duties of the Board relative thereto, and making an appropriation to carry out the purposes of the act.

The Bay Counties District Council of Carpenters has had a committee working on this matter for some time, and at its meeting October 25th the bill was read and unanimously adopted, and a copy of it was sent to the Glendale Carpenters' Union for action.

Cement can be manufactured and sold at a good profit for a cost not to exceed $1.00 per barrel, it is said. The present price is approximately $4.25 per barrel delivered on the job.

The bill which was locally endorsed follows:

Section 1.—The Department of Public Works shall have authority and it shall be its duty, as soon as conveniently may be, to make a thorough exploration of materials within the state which may be used in the manufacture of cement, and cement products, and to that end may employ such engineers, geologists, chemists, and other experts having a comprehensive knowledge of the materials useable in the manufacture of cement, as well as of cement and its properties. The said department shall have authority, and it is hereby fully authorized and empowered, to acquire by purchase or through the exercise of the right of eminent domain, consistent with and pursuant to the provisions of title seven of part three of the Code of Civil Procedure, property at such locations and in such tracts within the State of California as in the opinion of such department shall be deemed expedient and advisable for the purposes aforesaid; and to locate, establish, construct and maintain a cement plant or plants at such points within this state as it shall deem most feasible, convenient and acceptable, and for the best interests of the state.

Whenever it shall be deemed necessary by the Department of Public Works to protect in eminent domain it shall be the duty of the attorney general upon requisition of the said department to immediately institute and prosecute to a finality such condemnation proceedings in the name of the people of the state, in the manner provided by law.

Section 11.—Whenever the said department shall have completed its exploration of the resources of the state as in section one of this act provided, and shall have made a thorough and complete investigation of the different prospective sites for such cement plant or plants, and shall have obtained data relative to the transportation cost of production, it shall proceed to locate, construct, equip and operate a cement plant or plants at such locations as it shall determine, pursuant to the terms and provisions of this act.

Section 12.—All cement and cement products that shall be manufactured in any plant or plants established under authority of this act shall be used exclusively for state purposes; provided, however, that if at any time there is a surplus of cement or cement products above the amount necessary for state work, then, in that event, such cement or cement products may be sold to any county or city and county of the state to be by them used exclusively for the public works of such county or city and county.

Section 14.—The department shall from time to time determine the price at which the cement or cement products manufactured under the provisions of this act shall be sold, and shall file with the de-

FORMER SOCIALIST LEADER ORGANIZED THE FASCISTI TO COMBAT ALL SOCIALISM

Benito Mussolini, once a Socialist leader and editor of a Socialist newspaper, renounced his former beliefs to organize the Fascisti, a powerful group of young Italians whose sworn purpose is to oppose Socialism and every form of Bolshevism in Italy.

EDITORIALS

By the PEOPLE

A few days ago I received an invitation from the Emerson School of Self-Expression, 780-782 South Glendale avenue, Glendale, asking me to attend a teachers' recital at their studio. I went, last Monday night. The program which I had the pleasure to enjoy, was most delightful. It was a surprise to me to find an educational institution in the little city of Glendale, which in my estimation, compares very favorably with much larger institutions of similar nature located in much larger cities, here as well as abroad.

I have traveled all over the United States, and I have visited in capitals of Europe, and I have inspected many expression schools and conservatories in various lands. The Emerson school in Glendale, in my opinion, is an institution that adds only to the already far-spread fame of the charming little city surrounded by the majestic and beautiful Sierra Nevada.

Mrs. Verna S. Mitchell, assistant teacher of expression, gave a most perfect interpretation of Tennyson's "Enoch Arden." Her personality is most charming, and her dramatic work is of a very high order. She draws her audience immediately to her and she shows wonderful skill in literary interpretation. "Enoch Arden" belongs to the "heavy" type of literature, but Mrs. Mitchell interpreted the masterpiece in such an inspiring manner that old and young, high brow and just ordinary folk were equally delighted.

Miss Lilla Litch gave Richard Strauss' version of "Enoch Arden" as a most interesting accompaniment to Mrs. Mitchell's interpretation, and she did it well.

Mrs. Evelyn M. S. Labadie is director of the Emerson school. I have been told that various new features, such as scholarship contests, French and others will be added during the new term of the school.

FLORSHEIM SHOE SECURED BY GOLDBERG

Mr. Goldberg, proprietor of the Specialty Boot Shop, located in the Court Shops at 218 E. Broadway, has just secured the exclusive agency of the Florsheim shoe company and is a nationally known product and is noted for its durability and beauty.

"I was very fortunate to be able to make the Specialty Boot Shop the home of this wonderful shoe," said Mr. Goldberg. "It is a masterpiece and is made by skilled workmen. This is the reason for the durability and individuality of each pair."

"Pat," said a manager to one of his workmen, "you must be an early riser. I always find you at work the first thing in the morning."

"Indeed, and I am, sir; it's a family trait. I think so."

"Then your father is an early riser, too?"

"Me father is it!" answered Pat. "He rises that early that if he went to bed a little later he'd meet himself getting up in the morning."

"Lorna Doone" Last Time at T. D. & L.

"Lorna Doone," the great masterpiece, will be shown at the T. D. and L. theater for the last time today. This marvel of a picture, directed by Maurice Tourneur, and featuring beautiful Madge Bellamy is acclaimed one of the most perfect film attractions of the year. It was in fact a fiction triumph, and as a cinema offering is a classic. Hundreds of Glendaleans have lauded it tremendously. This article will serve as notice to those who have not seen "Lorna Doone" but wish to do so, that tonight is the last remaining opportunity. Don't miss it—it is ideally beautiful—a thing magnificent to look upon.

NORDSKOG RECORD TO MAKE DEBUT IN GLENDALE

Glendale is again furnishing the setting for something new. This time it is providing the first shop for the marketing of the Nordskog photographs and records. This is a new California product, made in Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. James of this city, who have the greatest faith in its future, have secured the right to handle it and have established the first salesrooms. Although the formal opening does not occur until Friday night, many visitors have been lured to their most attractive place of business in the Court Shop Colony and a number of photographs have been sold.

At the opening which will be a social affair ending in a dance in the pretty court to the music of the Nordskog records, weather permitting, Mayor Spencer Robinson will make the opening address, followed by a short talk by Mr. Nordskog on the photograph on which he spent many years of strenuous work to bring it to its present perfection.

Wilbur Herwig, whose records can be heard on the machine, will be present and sing the tenor solo "My Pretty Jane and 'To Tell You All'." Frank Geiger will sing in solo two songs written by a disabled California veteran who is still in the manuscript, one being "I Had a Good Job When I Left." Several records have been made of Mr. James' amusing monologues and these may be heard. The accompanists of the program will be Mrs. Wilbur Herwig, Mrs. Spencer Robinson, Mrs. Charles Reiche, and Mrs. Harry Girard, who will also sing.

Should the weather prove unpropitious the entertainment and dance will be transferred to a hall which has been engaged for the purpose, the public being most cordially invited to come and enjoy it all.

One of the selling points of the Nordskog photographs is a price 30 to 40 per cent below the Victor and Columbia and that too in hand-some cabinet cases.

ANNIVERSARY SHOE SALE IS ON

The Brooks Reliable Shoe store 120 West Broadway, is celebrating its first anniversary this month by putting on a sale that should attract buyers from not only Glendale, but the surrounding country as well. Every pair of shoes in the mammoth store will be marked down and Mr. and Mrs. Brooks extend a special invitation to the people to visit their store.

Coming to Glendale more than a year ago they decided this was the best city in the west and decided to open a shoe store here. They put in a large and reliable stock and have enjoyed a good business from the start. Both are great boosters for Glendale and should enjoy a good share of the business of this rapidly growing section.

CONCRETE TILE CO. SELLS BIG JOB ON SAN FERNANDO

R. E. Johnston, manager of the Concrete Brick and Tile company, reports the sale of a large public garage and store building to George J. Tobin of Alhambra, the job being located at 2013 San Fernando road, Los Angeles. The job requires about 25,000 tile, which is the equivalent of more than 125,000 bricks. The walls are 12 1/2 inches throughout. Mr. Tobin was interested in the tile because of the fact that these tile will make a water-proof wall.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

THE GOOD CHILDREN'S SONG

The nicest words we know are these:
"Excuse me, thank you, if you please."
Whatever other words we say,
We need them, need them every day.
Don't mix them up, for if you please,
You never should say: "If you please,"
But always say "excuse me."
If any cold kerchoos me,
We always say "Excuse me."

Chorus—
Don't mix them up for if you sneeze
You never should say: "If you please,"
But always say "Excuse me."
If any cold kerchoos me,
We always say "Excuse me."

The nicest things to eat are these:
Ice cream and cake and pie with cheese.
We love to eat them when we may,
We'd like to eat them every day.
But when you're offered one of these
Oh please don't say "Excuse me, please,"
But always say: "I thank you."
For Mamma'll surely spank you,
If you don't say "I thank you."

Chorus—
So when you're offered one of these,
O pray don't say: "Excuse me please,"
But always say: "I thank you."
For Mamma'll surely spank you,
If you don't say: "I thank you."

TRYING TO REFORM BOXING GAME

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Maintaining that boxing's chief source of trouble comes from petty larceny and grand larceny managers, William Muldoon, chairman of the New York Boxing commission, breaks out with a novel idea.

Muldoon would give all the managers the air and let the commission handle their affairs.

He thinks well of a plan to have a booking office in the headquarters of the commission where boxers could register for work. Five per cent of the boxer's purse would be exacted as a commission for the expenses of maintaining the employment agency.

It sounds fine and the theory is well intended, but it never would work.

There are some managers who would benefit the sport by accepting the gate but there are many others who are of more credit to the game than a lot of the boxers.

Good management is a tremendous factor in the success of a young boxer. The mentality of the average fighter is not geared high enough to enable him to handle his own affairs. As a rule the boxers are poor business men and even if their managers didn't get a big cut of their money the promoters would.

The commission has tried to place a limit on the percentage which a manager can demand from the earnings of his charge, but it did not work.

For form's sake a manager can file a contract with the commission showing that he is asking only 10 per cent for his share, but he can have an outside agreement standing for another 40 per cent.

Many managers have only a verbal agreement with their boxers. Jack Kearns and Jack Dempsey are said to work on a 50-50 agreement, but they have nothing but a verbal understanding. Billy Gibson and Benny Leonard are said to split all their earnings even. Very few pilots work for less than 30 per cent.

No trouble, however, comes from the champions and the headliners. It is the management of the little fellows, the preliminary boys and the youngsters just starting in the game, that constitutes the evil.

Some of the youngsters draw around $200 to $500 for a preliminary and by the time the manager takes his share and hands the boxer a bill for training and expenses he sometimes has about $25 left.

Perhaps the worst difficulty faced by the commission is to break up the cliques existing between promoters and a certain set of managers. The evil has been broken up fairly well but it still exists in some of the big clubs.

It used to be the case that a boxer, to get work or any kind of fair purses, was forced to line up with a certain manager and place himself practically at his mercy.

Because of the extent to which this practice had developed, the commission forced one of the biggest clubs in town to get rid of a matchmaker who was also the manager of the biggest stable of boxers in the city. Although he was "officially" relieved of his duties he still seems to have quite a lot to say about the cards, as he invariably has at least two of his boxers on every card.

SECTION 3. The City Engineer is directed to make a diagram of the property affected or benefitted by the proposed work or improvement as described herein, and to be assessed to pay the costs and expenses thereof. Such diagram shall show each separate lot, place or parcel of land, the area in square feet of each of such lots, place or parcel of land, and the relative location of the same to the work proposed to be done, all within the limits of the assessment district.

Resolution Which Would Allow All Time to Vote

The regular meeting of the Federation of Parent-Teacher Associations held Wednesday afternoon in the cafeteria of the High School proved a brief session. It was called to order by the president, Mrs. E. B. Moore, and the patriotic chairman led in salute to the flag.

The treasurer reported $17.50 as the cash assets of the organization and need for an S. O. S. call.

Mrs. Dotson, Probation Court chairman, reported meetings held at her home by the various chairmen of the separate associations. She reported the adoption of a slogan which read something like this: "Workers in the right and for the right, in all kindness, sympathy and understanding, may we help and inspire all with whom we come in contact." She also referred to the "chaperon pledge" adopted by her department which is to be submitted to all the P. T. A.'s for adoption and the signature of individual members, and which was submitted to the federation after the meeting closed and after the board had voted its approval. Mrs. Dotson made an urgent plea for the support of this pledge not alone by the parents but by the young people who will be affected by it.

Mrs. George Moore, the patriotic chairman, reported committee meetings to arrange for armistice day parade which she had attended as the representative of the P. T. A. Federation, and announced that the P. T. A.'s had been asked to march in the School Federation No. 4, which would be headed by the High School Trustees and Board of Education, and which would assemble at 9:30 at Broadway and Everett street, and carry the banner of the federation and the banners of the separate associations represented.

Norman Whytock made an announcement concerning Education Week from the 2d to the 9th of December the object of which is to acquaint the public and patrons of the schools with some of the vital functions of the systems. He stated that the celebration would be divided into a series of days each day being devoted to some special educational theme such as "Citizenship," "Patriotism," "School and Teacher," "Literature" and "Physical Training."

Mrs. A. H. Brown presented a resolution prepared and adopted by the Mutual Benefit Reading Circle advocating action to bring about a change in the school law with regard to the voting hours at school elections to make them conform to the hours of the city and avoid shutting out early and late voters who might not be able to visit the polls during the hours at present prescribed from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. This resolution is to be forwarded to the State Federation of Parent-Teacher associations and Congress of Mothers with a request that it set the necessary machinery in motion to promote the required legislation. Copies will be sent to County Superintendent Mark Koppel and to State Superintendent of Education W. H. Thayer. The association voted its approval of the resolution.

Mrs. E. B. Moore referred to the movement to secure a four-year course at the southern branch of the University of California.

There was some talk of additional playground equipment at Pacific Avenue and Mr. Whytock advised that no more be purchased until the courts had finally ruled on the liability of school boards for accidents on playgrounds, stating that some of the northern schools had taken out all their equipment.

This closed the afternoon's program and Miss Ellen Hanson, head of the domestic science department served tea and wafers to the ladies while they visited with each other.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Carter and son, daughter, Richard and Nellis and Miss Moss from Denver, Colorado, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Ream, 815 South Glendale avenue on Wednesday. They will make their permanent home in Glendale and have leased a house on East Harvard street near Adams.

"If ye break faith with us who die, we shall not sleep—tho poppies grow in Flanders fields"

From every heart that hoped and bled—from every man and woman who fought the good fight—from every home and fireside, there echoes PEACE and glad rejoicing on this, the 4th anniversary of the Armistice.

In the spirit of this fateful occasion, let us pause to offer good cheer to every sorrowing heart, every needful soul among us. With reverence and humility, let us pray the Almighty's just reward for those whose noble sacrifices kindled anew our faith in humanity and gave Peace to a warring world.

If selfishness and lust for power still divides nations, if in the old world Militarism has put on a different uniform, then all the more homage to those heroes, living and dead, who fought and suffered for AMERICA'S ideals. Theirs is a deathless glory.

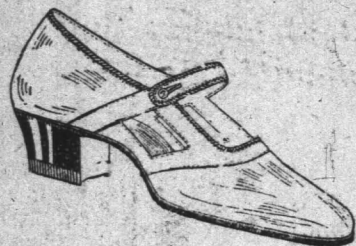

Their sacrifice brought mankind a step nearer to its glorious destiny. For their sake and our own, let each of us by personal influence and example, help emblazon in men's hearts, "Peace and Good Will to All Mankind!"

OBSERVATIONS

BY A GLENDALE OLD TIMER

When I came to Glendale, a good many years ago, it was a little country town, scattered over a wide district, with only a house here and there in many sections now built up solidly. As I remember it there was but one brick business house on the west side of Brand along its entire length, and only four or five on the east side. An unsightly lump on which ran the Pacific Electric tracks, occupied the center of this now beautiful street through the town of Glendale and Tropic. There were a few real estate men here in those days, but they were not doing very much except showing people around. So eager were some owners of homes to sell that I had not the slightest difficulty in buying a good, nearly new, 7-room house on a 50x150 lot, for $3000, and I paid only $25 down. More than that, I was not to pay any more for nearly four months, and then only $334. Think of having the use of a property like that nearly four months for only $25. That place today, with the added wear of many years on the house, could not be bought for less than $7500. Nothing could show better the difference in business conditions prevailing then and now, than the above incident.

The announcement of a notable building enterprise, the first 5-story structure to be erected in Glendale, reminds me of the humble start of the company that planned this fine building. About ten years ago Claude and Hearn Robinson came to Glendale from Dyersburg, Tenn. Claude was a tall, slender youth, evidently in very poor health, but with an aggressive disposition and a fiery temper. He and his brother opened a small refreshment stand in a little shack at the southwest corner of Park and Brand. And there was a very sparse population surrounding them then. But they gave strict attention to business, handled what people wanted and saved all they could. Soon they had to enlarge their shack and later they enlarged again. Then C. H. Henry put up his brick building on the northeast corner of Park and Brand and they leased the south store room, stocking it with groceries. A great many who landed in Glendale with mighty few dollars in their pockets, became prosperous merchants. Finally they sold their stock of goods and embarked in the transfer and storage business in a concrete building erected for the purpose by the late Chris Smith. Enlargements were made as the business expanded, and now the "rental building" is so outgrown that a new one, the very first of its kind, was built several years ago but Hearn never changed the name of the firm and it is still Robinson Brothers. Despite his fiery temper Claude was a most lovable young man, and there were many who mourned his death, not short of what promised to be a splendid business career.

There is in business in Glendale now a man whose start in merchandising was the humblest imaginable. Indeed, his life story reads like one of Horatio Alger's preposterous stories of boy life so popular years ago. But this is a true narration, given by the man himself, who is not ashamed of his slow start. He had but lately come west, a poor emigrant boy, and was wearily trudging along the Southern Pacific track toward Sparks, Nevada, one day, with less than $5 in his pocket, when he was overtaken by a crew of section hands propelling an old-fashioned velocipede handcar. They invited him to ride into the town and he eagerly accepted. Arriving in Sparks he got off at the depot and innocently asked the man who owned the building, who had the ticket agent and asked him if he could rent office space there for an eating stand. The agent told him to see the manager of the division, so to him he went and asked if he could rent a small space in "his" building. The manager kindly explained to his questioner that the building belonged to the great Southern Pacific railway company and no man could rent space in it. He told the young man, however, that the use of the platform was free to him. This was enough and the young man departed, eager to commence business. With his meager funds he bought a coffee pot, cups and saucers, a few dozen doughnuts from an eating house and a box of apples. When the trains stopped he was on the platform with his basket of apples and doughnuts, and his pot of coffee. The dining cars served meals only at the regular hours, so the travelers were glad of the chance for a lunch between meals, and he soon sold out. He made money from the start and his living cost very little. He added more and more to his stock, and his list of customers grew. But he wanted to make money very fast, and that was his undoing. He bought 101 boxes of apples on one occasion, and with largely augmented stock of refreshments in all lines and one or two paid helpers, he invaded the Pullman cars as well as the day coaches, instead of proffering his commodities at the windows. He made wonderful sales and plenty of money for a few days, and then the Pullman conductors and porters of this invasion of their exclusive privilege of feeding the traveling public, declared war on the invader and he was banished from the platform of the station. Again adrift, the young man took up his travels, engaged in business here and there, always making and saving money, and finally landed in Tropic, where he opened a grocery and feed store. Having practically no "overhead" he sold goods at very low rates, satisfied with small profits and a quick turnover. He married and his wife worked with him in the business, taking care of the customers while he delivered goods. They made money fast, buying sugar and grain in carlots and underselling other merchants there by. Finally they sold out their stock and went into business with a competence. But after a few years of rest both longed for the busy life again. So a warehouse was erected as store and living rooms combined, and they were again plodding along in business, contented with a trade the two can handle, and envying not the big merchants.

Among the many strange happenings that came under my observation when in the newspaper business in Illinois was the accidental killing of a middle-aged man by his best friend. The first excited reports received at the county seat, were to the effect that Marion Rollings had deliberately and foully murdered Joe Rinehart, his comrade of Civil war days and his enemy for many years since the war closed. But the coroner's jury investigation put an entirely different face on the matter. It was shown that Rollings and Rinehart were both drunk and that the former persisted in annoying his comrade, as was his wont when under the influence of liquor. Rinehart defended himself against the rough play of Rollings by kicking at him. The latter was whittling with a small penknife and as Rinehart came close to him and delivered a vicious kick he threw out his right hand in an effort to trip up his opponent. The knife blade placed the great femoral artery and Rinehart fell to the ground with the blood pouring from the wound. Rollings sprang to aid the man he really loved like a brother and would not have injured for the world, and attempted to bind up the gash, but to no avail. In less than 10 minutes Rinehart had bled to death. Of course Rollings was cleared of all blame by the jury, but to the day of his death he ceased not to mourn the loss of his friend.

Fathers and mothers who are shocked when their sons' names appear on lists of persons arrested in raids on gambling dens, are too often much to blame for the wrong of their boys. When boys see their mothers engage eagerly in raffles, selling of chances, and games of chance at society functions that are given to raise money quickly for really worthy purposes, they get to look upon gambling as a permissible pleasure. No doubt they are astonished when officers of the law who blandly ignore society gambling sternly make arrests for exactly similar offenses committed behind closed doors. Parents must learn upon gambling is gambling, whether committed in "dens" or in parlor or society hall. Why officers of the law are so implacable against Chinese lotteries and gambling games, yet make no move to arrest equally guilty society gamblers passes my comprehension. No worthy cause should ever depend for funds upon practices that are illegal.

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

By S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift.

In a large Middle Western city can be seen on almost every principal corner the letters "A. B. C." painted on the street pavements in large, bold strokes.

S. W. STRAUS the letters mean "Always Be Careful."

In the United States, so we are informed by the statistician, a human life is needlessly sacrificed every six minutes. In the year 1920 there were 76,000 accidental deaths, and the toll is increasing. That America is lagging behind in this important phase of thrift work is shown by a comparison with conditions in England and Wales, where the combined death rate during the period of 1911 to 1920 was 369 accidental fatalities for one million deaths. In the United States the rate for the same period was 714. In other words, England and Wales have shown us that through the proper application of the principles of thrift along the lines under discussion, it is possible to eliminate almost 50 per cent of accidental fatalities. If this standard of efficiency were applied in the United States, it would mean the annual saving of approximately 35,000 lives, in addition to the saving of a vast amount of property otherwise destroyed by preventable causes.

Two tired men—the sort of men who are always tired—were talking about the forthcoming election in their village and discussing the rival candidates.

"Now, that Mr. Pusher is a good sort!" said one.

"I'm not so sure of that," replied the other. "But what makes you think that?"

"Why, did you notice how heartily he shook hands with me?"

"Yes, I did," replied his friend. "He wasn't content with one hand, he grabbed both. He's a good fellow, he is."

The other looked at him thoughtfully for a moment. Then he said:

"Yes, he took both your hands because he's very proud of his watch!"

M. Cane knows suggestion is a powerful thing, and that to use it indiscriminately is dangerous. Here is an example of the insidious way in which it can break up friendships:

An artist was showing a friend round an amateur art exhibition.

Arriving in front of a large, gaudy canvas, the artist waved his hand contemptuously at it and said:

"There, that's pretty bad, don't you think?"

"It is," agreed his friend, who hoped thus to cover up his ignorance of art. "Awful! Why, it's a crime!"

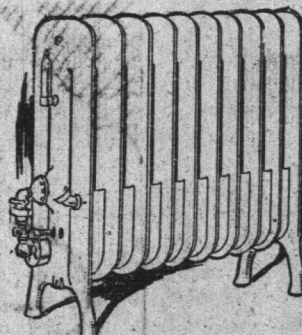

"Oh, is it?" spouted the artist. "Let me tell you, my ignorant friend, that that's the best picture in the exhibition."

"What that?"

"Yes, I painted it!"

HOW PLUMBING HAS ADVANCED

Remember the day when you pushed your soap covered face into the battered tin basin back there in the days when the dinner bell meant a hurry call to the noon or night time pre-meal ablutions?

Or, maybe, this is going back a bit too far for most of you.

With the current comforts of the modern home, few, perhaps, realize that plumbing, as a necessity, is of comparatively recent development.

A local plumber has called attention to the contrast of today's home with the days of yesterday, when a plumber was connected in the mind only with digging in the mire for recalcitrant, twisted, unyielding pipes, a man called only in time of dire need, and a man whose assistant usually brought along the wrong tools.

Dirt in itself is not as bad as its name implies.

It is what it brings with it that brings the discomfort. Today we are knowing more than ever that plumbing, heating and ventilating go hand in hand and are as necessary to our happy existence as eating and sleeping.

What were among the fancy "doo-dads" of the early days of the modern age were thought of by our granddads in just exactly the terms of aghastness as the automobile and other silly inventions.

The day has quite passed, however, when sanitary plumbing and all it implies, is the possession of mere plutocracy. The man of simple means knows that one of the greatest contributions to his health, happiness and longevity is the plumbing features that mean so much to him.

Not until one does without the things that science has brought to us in the way of heating and plumbing contrivances, is he able to grope into the days of the throw-back and figure out just how our forefathers could have existed without these accessories to life.

The environment of the home today is reflected by the spotless bathroom, no less than it is shown in the living room, that is decked for the most critical inspection of prying visitors.

Adorned and equipped in a manner that combines all features needed in the comfort and aesthetic tastes of the most exacting, the present day bathroom is receiving the careful attention of homemakers that it well deserves.

The modern American sanitary bathroom incorporates all the sanitary necessities as well as the systems of hot water heating that so closely simulate natural heat.

A man thinks that it is all right for a woman to confide in him—and all wrong for her to confide in any other man.

UNIVERSAL HAS GREAT PICTURE VARIETY

Scenery from Every Corner of Globe May Be Seen at Film City

A great variety of pictures are being staged at Universal new, and probably the greatest variety of scenery that has ever been in use there can be seen now.

In "The Madonna of Avenue A" which King Baggot is directing with Gladys Walton, some of the principal scenes are laid in a Southern village. In "Around the World in Eighteen Days," a chapter play starring William Desmond, the locale encircles the world in a kaleidoscope whirl. One episode is laid in Stamboul, city of romance and mystery. One almost expects to hear the clear call of the muezzin from the minarets of mosques. Picturesque scenes in the Sahara desert form the background for other scenes.

The eye jumps to Magdalena Bay in "The Exploits of Yorke Norrey," which Duke Worne is directing with Roy Stewart. Thrilling encounters between Stewart and smugglers occur in the George Bronson Howard stories. In the same chapter the scene shifts to offices of the secretary of state at Sacramento.

Mountain scenes with all the lure of wooded valleys and distant peaks form the setting for Jack London's "The Abysmal Brute," which Hobart Henley is directing with Reginald Denny. In "Merry Go Round" which Rupert Julian is directing with an all-star cast, including Mary Philbin, Dale Fuller, Norman Kerry and others, the atmosphere is Vienna. At Universal City has been constructed a set duplicating a street in the Prater, the amusement park district of the old world capital.

From brilliant scenes of a fashionable New York drawing room in "The Social Buccaneer," in which Jack Mulhall is playing under the direction of Robert F. Hill, one is transported to an entirely mythical land pictured by colorful sets for "Prisoners," a film version of the George Barr McCutcheon novel, "Castle Cranecrow." It is laid in a mythical kingdom in the same general district of the author's geographical imagination as the famous "Gruenitz" stories. Jack Conway is directing Herbert Rawlinson in the picture.

The lights and shadows of a great American city furnish the background for "The Ghost Patrol," which Nat Ross has directed with an all-star cast.

BURBANK C. OF C. OUT AFTER MORE MEMBERS

R. W. Colburn is not satisfied that the chamber of commerce of Burbank has a membership of 200. He has started another drive for members and here is the letter he is mailing to a large number of prospective members.

Dear sir: Being busy will not be a good excuse for not reading this letter. It is not long because I am going to say a whole lot in a few words.

I undertook a big job last year when I promised to build up the Burbank Chamber of Commerce. I have succeeded.

From thirty-two members I have made it a working organization with two hundred and nine paying members at this time.

In addition I have saved several thousand dollars for Burbank business men by keeping out bun advertising and fake soliciters for charity.

I want to make this Chamber one of the strongest and most efficient ones in Southern California and I need your membership.

The cost is five dollars per quarter, no more and no donations or subscriptions.

This small amount should not stand in the way of your doing your part and helping me put over the one big boost for Burbank.

Mail in the enclosed application signed, or phone 103 and I will do the rest.

I appreciate your reading of this letter anyway.

Yours truly, R. W. COLBURN.

Three Boys in Whittier, Another at Strickland Result of Thefts Here

Three boys were committed to Whittier Reform School, one was sent to the Strickland Home in Highland Park, and the cases of four more have been filed and will be tried some time in the future. The boys appeared in juvenile court Monday morning.

The boys sent to Whittier according to the police are: Jack Olympus, Clyde Thomas, Cecil Kinnaird.

Gordon Bailey was confined to the Strickland home, police say. The three boys sent to Whittier are to remain there until they are twenty-one. The juvenile judge did not set the term of the Bailey boy's confinement.

The cases of four more have been postponed for further investigation on the part of the local police, and may come before the court within the next two weeks.

The conviction of the four boys comes at the conclusion of a long series of investigations by the Burbank police of thefts, burglaries and destruction of property which have been taking place for months. The police about a month ago found a car which had been stolen from F. Lang, wrecked and left standing behind the old high school. Evidences left by the youthful gang led the police to a confirmation of their suspicions as to who were responsible for the maraudings and a great roundup of offenders began.

Chinese coins, automobiles, tools from various garages, clothing, money and a great number of other things, have been stolen by the gang.

The boys, it is said, used to hide their loot beneath the grammar school until they could find a market for it.

The discovery by the police of those responsible and their appearance for preliminary investigations before Judge Crawford and Chief Cole failed to stop the activities of the gang, police say. Some of the boys who were called to account for their conduct following their appearance before the local police immediately attempted to rob two Burbank garages, police believe, and threw rocks through the windows of the grammar school within a few hours of the time the police were talking with them.

Halloween night was much more quiet this year than in past years because the gang who has been causing Burbank police trouble had been thoroughly broken up, it is said.

With the confinement of the four boys and the arrest of four others we believe that it will be some time before there will be trouble with youthful offenders.

More than 600,000,000 francs were expended at the coronation of King Ferdinand and Queen Marie of Rumania at the ancient capital, Alba Julia. The rich robes, made in Paris, represent the best work in the maples and jewellers' art. The royal sceptre of the king was fashioned by Falize, famous French artist, as a lighter model of the twelfth one that reposes in the royal Rumanian vaults. Queen Marie's crown was manufactured by the same goldsmith of Transylvanian gold and rich turquoise, amethysts and moonstones. It contains many ancient relics and symbols, the ornaments hanging from the chains representing wheat, symbolic of Rumania's chief product.

$365,000,000 FOR ICE

Spent yearly, $1,000,000 a day, is the estimate of the National City Bank of New York. The estimate was based on 1920 census figures. In 1919 natural ice cut was valued at about $37,500,000.

How Much to Save

We are often asked how much a person should save.

That is a hard question to answer—it depends on what you earn, how big your family is and a lot of other things.

Our experience with savers has shown that nearly everyone can save more than he thinks he can. A young man or woman who is really in earnest about getting ahead can save one-fourth to one-half on a salary of $100 to $175 a month. Ten per cent is about the average for persons with family responsibilities.

But remember this: What you save in your "twenties" is worth more than twice as much to you as what you save in your "forties."

Capital and Surplus $10,350,000

Pacific-Southwest Review

By D. H. SMITH

Manager, Brand Boulevard Branch, Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank

D. H. Smith

There is no district in the country which has progressed as rapidly financially during the past few years as that portion of the Pacific-Southwest located in California. This is evidenced by the fact that between 1917 and 1921 the bank resources of the fourteen counties comprising this district increased from approximately $492,000,000 to $872,000,000. There is every reason to believe that when the final 1922 figures are completed these resources will total one billion dollars or more—an increase of 100 per cent in a period of five years.

The appreciate the resources of the community behind this financial strength it is helpful to analyze the wealth of the district as shown on the assessment records of the various counties.

These fourteen counties have a total of 19,997,000 acres of assessed real estate. Real estate is valued at $1,236,000,000, improvements at $544,000,000, and personal property at $406,000,000. Operative property including railroads has been assessed at $444,000,000, making a total assessed valuation for this territory of approximately $2,630,000,000. The astonishing increase in property valuation is apparent when compared with a total valuation in 1917 of approximately $1,689,000,000 and in 1921 of $2,460,000,000, making an increase of $940,000,000 or 57 percent during the last five years, and an increase of over $207,000,000 or over 8 percent during the last year.

A large part of this property wealth is located in Los Angeles county, due to the fact that the city of Los Angeles is the industrial and commercial center for the entire Pacific-Southwest. This county has 1,283,000 acres valued at nearly $1,574,000,000, which is over 58 per cent of the total valuation of this district. Fresno county with 2,178,000 assessed acres is valued at $186,000,000; Kern county with the largest assessed acreage of 3,576,000 acres totals $180,466,000; and Orange county with only 444,377 acres ranks fourth in total valuation with $151,415,000.

It should be remembered that the reality and improvements are generally assessed at about 50 percent of their real value, and that practically none of the bank resources and only a very small proportion of the stocks and bonds held by the people of this district show in the assessed value of property. When allowance is made for these factors it is safe to assume that the total wealth of the people resident in the fourteen counties located in the southern half of California may be very conservatively placed at approximately six billion dollars.

Against this wealth is an outstanding county indebtedness of approximately $26,000,000, or about one-fourth of one per cent of the real value of the property of the territory. The total county rate of taxation on each $100 assessed valuation ranges from only $1.40 in Kern county to $3.55 in San Bernardino county.

This tremendous growth in realty values has not been out of proportion to the general economic development of the Pacific-Southwest.

The rapid increase in agricultural production, the constantly growing commercial and industrial activity, and the prospects for continuing development have been responsible for this remarkable increase in the value of the resources of the territory, as indicated by the assessment records.

TURKEY WANTS MORE

Indications that peace had come to stay in the Near East vanish with the changing aspect of the situation. When the Turks marched back to Europe, it seemed for awhile that their army would come to actual clash with the soldiers of England. The common belief is that had the English so desired, and other powers held aloof, they could have chased the Turks back, knocking much of the truculency out of them. Apparently England, noting the coolness of former allies, did not care to assume the burden alone. The Turks were permitted to return. They were not satisfied. They began to boast their prowess. Had they not won over all Europe? Apparently they had done precisely this. They proclaimed their army the most powerful in existence, and indicated a willingness to put the matter to test. They had been given an inch, and in accord with the old adage, they are demanding an ell.

The allies are said to have been ordered away from Constantinople. The inhibition rests upon American ships as well. That there will be submission to the latest mandate is far from certain. That out of refusal to submit, there might grow another huge war, is a possibility that must be considered. Turkey desires its mastery of Europe to be openly admitted. This is asking much of powers who regard the Turk as in Europe only by suzerainty, because the job of keeping him out would cost more than it could be worth.

Meanwhile, Turkey is developing a set of internal troubles that for a time at least may serve to divert it from the purpose of passing from the status of "sick man" to that of monarch of the Dardanelles situation, and ruler of destinies in general.

SIMPLE JUSTICE

Because of having been arrested for theft, a citizen already classed as undesirable, deliberately murders the policeman who caught him. He accomplishes this by luring the officer to a place in which a deadly weapon is concealed. For the time the assassin escapes, but soon is caught again, and then he admits his guilt. He also proclaims his hatred of all policemen. As representatives of law and order he says they "get what they had coming" when one is shot down.

The coroner holds an inquest over the body of the thug's victim. There is but one verdict possible. The verdict ascribes the death to murder and names the murderer. It is in accord with known facts; with all the facts that legitimately could have a bearing on the matter. For the trial of the prisoner to be as prompt and as brief, the outcome as decisive, would be the expression of justice. No such expression is expected of the court. Hampered by precedent, smothered in a mass of unnecessary and trivial technicalities, bamboozled by criminal lawyers, a case in which the truth is so plain, may be prolonged almost indefinitely. The initial trial may be one of a long series of trials. It would not be surprising if by an array of earnest witnesses gathered, from highway and byway, the lawyer would end by proclaiming plausibly that the victim had been the aggressor, and the man who cruelly slew him, had resorted only to self-defense. This sort of stuff is swallowed whole by some juries. They accept it notwithstanding that the truth to the contrary has been established by circumstances; the jurors waiving the circumstances, the truth, the law and the cause of justice they are sworn to support.

There has been much said adverse to this system of procedure, but nothing has come of the protests yet. In a case so plain as the one cited, court action should be a mere formality, confirming the verdict of the coroner's office.

FUTILE ACCOMPLISHMENTS

An advertisement announcing the possibility of physical development asks several questions. It wants to know if you (the reader of the ad.) can lift 200 pounds or more overhead with one arm; can bend or break a horseshoe; tear two decks of playing cards; bend spikes, or chin yourself with one hand. Apparently the ambition to do these wholly silly and futile things is supposed to be lurking in the minds of the race.

It is possible to encourage muscles to abnormal size and strength. The slightest reason for doing so, unless for exhibition purposes, never has come to light. The ordinary citizen has no occasion for lifting 200 pounds into the air. There is no intimate contact between himself and a horseshoe, and why, coming into possession of this article, he should desire to destroy its usefulness, is another mystery. Permitted to remain intact, the horseshoe becomes a sign of optimism if nailed over the barn door. It fills a gracious office when men engage in pitching it at a stake. If the owner of the shoe feels that it must be bent, the duty falls naturally to the blacksmith. Tearing decks of cards is sure proof that energy is being wasted in an effort that does not accomplish anything. Cards are used in games, that viewed in certain lights, may be deemed reprehensible, and still very worthy persons are known to employ them in full consciousness of innocence.

The human frame that bulges with muscles, and that in consequence soon reaches the condition known as "muscle-bound" varies as widely from an acceptable standard as the living skeleton does, or the excessively obese. Moderate and regular exercise is essential. Exercise that leads to humps and knobs of superfluous muscle, that must be petted and humored, or become an incubus, is so far from being worth while that a most seemly impulse is to avoid it. A man should have the strength to do the task that is his to perform, and then a surplus to guard against undue fatigue. He does not need to imitate either the elephant or the locomotive.

In the same issue of a paper containing a glowing account of the prosperity of Russia, appears an official statement that cannibalism in that country is at an end. Perhaps when people cease from devouring each other it is a sign that times are growing better with them. However, it fails to vision forth quite the exalted status that the first account seeks to imply. The truth about Russia would be welcome, but it seems to be beyond attainment.

For three successive nights Los Angeles police made a raid on mashers, rounding up ninety-six of these undesirable males. It was found that a large proportion of the offenders were married, and they whimpered like a lot of scared youngsters when threatened with exposure. The police were not inclined to be overly severe, and the fellows were protected from their wives, just for the one time, however.

To individuals of a certain tendency almost any pretext is acceptable as an excuse for suicide. For example, a veterinarian recently killed himself because the medicine he had prescribed for a sick dog was not regarded with favor by the owner of the dog. Just for the sake of dignity, the man should have found a better reason, or hung on to life awhile.

"He always carried a large sum of money with him." This is a sentence from the obituary of almost anyone who disappears mysteriously, or is found lifeless with pockets turned inside out. To survivors who carry large sums, and have a tendency to display the same, it ought to convey a warning.

THE INFERIORITY COMPLEX

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Inferiority complex is a long, highbrow word for just common, everyday envy which is used in every household.

It covers more ground, however, than envy. We envy a person that has something or enjoys some advantage which we want and perhaps think we should have. Our inferiority complex, however, works generally against every person, besides ourselves who is in any way superior to us or has superior things.

It is a handy term and explains many things. Any woman that is good-looking is sure to arouse more envy, or less bitter feelings in some of her sisters. As one of the characters in Shakespeare said to another: "Be thou chaste as ice and pure as snow, yet thou shalt not escape calumny." We have often wondered why the surest way to make an enemy is to lead him on. We lead him on, or overeat or pardon a debt. The inferiority complex explains it. It makes him mad to think that he was not the giver instead of the givee.

This explains also the general attitude of hostility we have toward any one who is good, or professes to be good or talks about being good. It is an offense to us when we meet superior virtue.

This might be called the law of the hydrostatic paradox of cussedness.

The general run of ignorant people dislike those who are educated; those who are compelled to stay at home have hard feelings toward those who travel and talk about it.

The poor dislike the rich and there are so many poor that yellow newspapers and yellow blather-skites generally love to play upon this inferiority complex. That is why the cartoon of the rich man is so popular wherein he is represented as having a large abdomen covered always with a white vest and he always appears smoking a long black cigar which protrudes from a fat, jeweled face. If we cannot be as rich as the rich, at least we can make them ridiculous. It tickles our inferiority complex.

The bitterness that is often found among those who are physically defective toward their more normal fellows arises from the same cause.

Every one knows, of course, that sober, self-controlled people are superior to loafers and wastrels. That is why the loafers and wastrels heartily detest the others.

We are all struggling to get on and to get ahead. And the price of getting ahead is to become a target for the brickbats of those we have left behind.

When a preacher goes wrong or a prominent banker falls he dispenses a great amount of glee among the victims of the inferiority complex.

Just to be elected president of the United States or governor of the state or to any other position of prominence means an assured amount of hostility and venom.

The fact that we all are touched more or less with the inferiority complex is all the more reason why we should all be heartily ashamed of it.

Songs of the Poets

The Dandelions—By Helen Gray Cone (1859—)

Upon a showery night and still,
Without a sound of warning,
A trooper band surprised the hill,
And held it in the morning.

We were not waked by bugle-notes,
No cheer our dreams invaded,
And yet, at dawn their yellow coats
On the green slopes paraded.

We careless folk the deed forgot;
Till one day, idly walking,
We marked upon the self-same spot
A crowd of veterans talking.

They shook their trembling heads and gray
With pride and noiseless laughter;
When, well-a-day! they blew away,
And ne'er were heard of after.

UNDISCOVERED PLANET MAY CIRCLE SUN

By ISABEL M. LEWIS of U. S. Naval Observatory

There is no good reason for believing that Neptune is the outermost planet of the solar system and there are a number of excellent reasons for suspecting that one or more planets may be patrolling the outskirts of the solar system far beyond Neptune's orbit.

In the first place the existence of one or more such bodies is possible since the gravitational control of the sun extends to an enormous distance between the orbit of Neptune. The sun would not have the slightest difficulty in controlling the motions of a planet ten times more distant than Neptune, though it would take 5000 years for such a planet to complete one revolution around the sun.

Not only is the sun powerful enough to control a planet at this distance, but there are indications that it may do so. It is a well known fact that many comets return repeatedly to the sun. The perihelia of such comets, that is, their points of nearest approach to the sun, usually lie far within the orbit of Jupiter and frequently within the orbit of the earth. Their aphelia, however, or the most distant points in their orbits, usually lie near the orbits of the outer planets. The position of ery of the disturbing body—Neptune.

The difficulties of discovering a trans-Neptunian planet, granted its existence, are very great. In the telescope such a planet would appear simply as a faint star, probably several magnitudes fainter than Neptune. It may be recalled that Neptune was observed several times as a star and its position recorded in star catalogues, without any suspicion of its planetary nature being entertained long before it was discovered as a planet. The motion of a trans-Neptunian planet, the only aspect in which it would differ from a star in the eyes of the observer, would not be detected readily, as it would be extremely slight during the period of observation. It is probable that the discovery of such a planet would be made only from a study and comparison of photographic plates which would show the change in the position of the planet. The asteroids, or minor planets, are easily picked up on photographic plates by the trails they leave during the period of exposure, but this is due to the fact that they are rapidly moving objects and are comparatively close to the earth.

In addition it has been noted that Uranus and Neptune are not traveling along as smoothly in their orbits as might be expected. There are certain small irregularities in their motions, perturbations as they are called, such as would be produced by the gravitational attraction of one or more exterior bodies. Perturbations of the same kind but larger in amount were observed in the motion of Uranus prior to the discovery of Neptune and led eventually to the discovery of the disturbing body—Neptune.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

THE TURNING POINT

(St. Louis Globe-Democrat)

Not long ago the country was delighted to read of a near-centenarian who had appeared, unannounced, in the House and Senate at Washington, and who, making himself known to "Uncle Joe" Cannon, had been quickly recalled to memory by him, and was at once lionized in both houses and in all official circles at the capital. He was Cornelius Cole, a member of the House and later of the Senate from California in the days when "Uncle Joe" was at the beginning of his long congressional career.

There was a newness and freshness in the story—something almost to be called unique—not the less because it was wholly true. There could be neither falsehood nor exaggeration in it. A man who, after long service in both houses of the congress, had dropped out of public life and been forgotten, had suddenly reappeared in Washington, meeting the one man who remembered him as a contemporary of the 70s, and had been feted as he deserved. Not exactly recalling the case of Calus Marius, he none the less reminded us of an old Roman who, after viewing the scenes of Rome's old glories, had returned in his old age to Rome and been acclaimed there.

He was not then quite one hundred years old—or young. Some of the commentators said that he should have rounded the century point, in this age of centenarians, to give zest to the event. But Mr. Cole had not been thinking of an "event," and he rounded the century point a few days ago in his house, and on his spacious grounds in Los Angeles, where he received a host of his friends and where he must have said many things as good as what he said to Mr. Cannon while the two were sitting in the Senate chamber. "Joe," said he, "you and the tariff debate are the only two things unchanged here, and you are a little more changed than the line of tariff discussion. That hasn't changed a particle."

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Giving the wife to the "other man" is not necessarily heroic. The giver has no logical ground for deeming himself a martyr. The story has been told anew in the courts. There was a husband and a male friend with hypnotic eye or something like that, and there was a wife.

HENRY JAMES

On the face of things, the husband lost out. At least the hypnotic eye won the wife away, and she still is away. After the husband thinks the matter over a little more he need feel no discomfort unless due to a fear that she may come back.

There is small occasion for mourning over such a wife. The old-fashioned farewell that took the form "Good riddance to bad rubbish" would cover the case nicely. Of course the experience is humiliating to a husband, but there remains to him the satisfaction of knowing that soon or late there will be another interloper with more potent hypnotic spell, and the woman will stage a fresh get-away.

To be sure, the wife who skips by the light of the moon or otherwise, by doing so, shatters an ideal. She also reveals the fact that as an individual she had in no way measured up to the ideal; that she was spurious, clay-footed or clay throughout.

The husband thus bereft had been unfortunate, not in this climax, but in his original choice. He should have picked out a better partner. As he picked out a failure, it should console him that another has assumed obligation for her board and keep.

Of course all this goes just the same when the husband leaves, only with a shifting of roles, and the difference that he ought to be dragged back and be given a thousand years on the chains.

The natural conclusion in relation to the double murder mystery in New Jersey is that it remains unsolved only because the authorities decline to solve it. That two prominent members of a community, in which both were known to a wide circle, could have been killed and dumped under a tree, and the perpetrators of the act not be found, if there existed any desire to find them, is a view impossible of acceptance.

Emerson Hough objects to the presence of tourists in the national parks. He likes to be there himself, but by himself, communing with the bears. In just what capacity he visits such places is not explained. How he enters without being a tourist, and in what manner he is invested with rights not inhering to confessed tourists, perhaps he will make clear when he writes to express his indignation. Possibly a kindly and sympathetic government will feel impelled to set apart some beautiful expanse for the sole benefit of Mr. Hough.

Parents of families of ten children and eleven children respectively have been explaining how easy and delightful it is to support such broods. Both the fathers are wage-earners, and say that they earn enough for the purpose, and are happy besides.

Congratulations will be extended to them, but not unmixed with wonder on the part of parents staggering under the expense of supporting a solitary youngster.

A Long Beach boy in his middle teens blew out his brains in the presence of his sweetheart, a little older, but still in her teens. When youngsters take their calf loves seriously, and are allowed to play with deadly weapons, tragedies of this sort, deeply regrettable as they are, may be expected.

Chicago courts are about to pass upon a will that devised an estate of $27,000 to two dogs. Of course there could be no proper method of treating such a will, but to break it promptly. Then the beneficiaries probably could be induced or required to provide adequately for the dogs. If not, doubtless, there is a humane society in Chicago.

Many people are sincerely devoted to dogs, and have a real affection for canine companions. It is quite possible for such people to be wholly sane, and to be competent to make a will. Therein they differ in mental condition from the late Chicagoan.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

In our small, confidential and gossip circle we call him Johnny Carolus. No one knows why. It isn't his name, and anyhow, he is a priest and we have no right to be that familiar with him. But Johnny Carolus he is and ever will be. Last night he came into the club, again from ear to ear.

"I just got a letter from my friend the doctor," said he. "Successful at last! praise be! Firm on his own feet."

The story is worth telling for the benefit of wives and husbands. Johnny Carolus has a theory that no man can do his best work if he is not inspired by love. I'll not argue it for him. I'm merely stating it. His friend the Doc was madly in love with his wife. So she is with him, but she is a whiner and a bum sport. Twice he has had good chances in other towns. But, being compelled to leave his wife behind until he got established, she broke him up by her letters.

"If you really loved me you would not consent to this separation." "What sort of men are these who would come between husband and wife?"

"Night after night I've lain awake sobbing—" "Mostly, Johnny Carolus says, she's a liar. She has not suffered as much as she says—no more than any loving wife would suffer in like case—but she loves to dramatize herself. She spends money on sad photographs of herself to send to hubby and tells of the men who, knowing she is lonesome, have been attentive. She succeeded twice in worrying the poor young fellow into giving up promising prospects and coming home. This time Johnny Carolus took the case in hand.

"You'll let me read your letters," said he to the wife. "You've been a bad influence. Remember, I'm a priest." "I'll write them after time Johnny has turned the letters back to be rewritten. He has substituted faith and courage and content for the peevish wailing of a selfish woman. The Doc's letters have been filled with sunshine as a result. He has worked his head off to make a place for "the bravest little woman," and has succeeded. She goes to him tomorrow.

Johnny Carolus says she has learned her lesson, too. She will play a wife's part after this, instead of being a mean, envying, wet-eyed handcap.

BURWASH DRIVES BUICK SEDAN INTO TRUCK

Coming from Intersection,
Chiropractic Fails to See Trailer

A Buick sedan, driven by N. C. Burwash, chiropractic of Burbank, crashed into the trailer of a truck belonging to the Los Angeles and Santa Barbara Motor Express last night on San Fernando road.

The truck was driven by H. E. Murray of Los Angeles.

Burwash was driving his car into San Fernando boulevard from an intersection. He saw the truck which passed the intersection just ahead of him, but he did not see the trailer. Just as he made the turn the trailer caught his sedan beneath it and dragged it about forty feet before the driver of the truck realized that a collision had taken place.

The sedan was taken to the Lovejoy garage. The damages to the car amount to about $100.

WE WOMEN

TO KISS OR NOT TO KISS.

Bacteriologists have given rise to the impression that we who are addicted to kissing should carry red lanterns and flaunt them in the faces of those who would kiss us.

A red lantern or even an automatic safety signal system would be a nuisance at best, and until bacteriologists devise more efficacious means it may be taken for granted that human beings will continue to expose themselves to whatever hygienic dangers are incident to the art.

But are bacteriologists justified in the view that kissing is a menace to the health of the community?

Dr. Simon Katzoff, learned physician and psychologist, takes issue with bacteriologists who condemn kissing on the grounds that it violates the laws of hygiene. It appears that Dr. Katzoff has devoted much scientific thought and study to the subject. He speaks very kindly of kissing.

The true student, of course, is one who has an intellectual affection for his subject. Dr. Katzoff fairly carries one away with his scholarly enthusiasm for kissing as an adjunct of hygiene. He speaks with such emphasis, as a matter of fact, that on reading an address which he recently made to the Bridgeport Philosophical Society I felt that the future of the country demanded that Congress do something about it immediately.

Dr. Katzoff's argument is that kissing in a measure accomplishes the very things which the laws of hygiene aim to accomplish. He says, in effect, that bacteriologists actually contradict themselves when they condemn the ancient and sacred and hygienic practice and art of kissing. It is his opinion that the heat generated by a kiss kills germs.

"Among sweethearts," says Dr. Katzoff, "kissing sends forth ethereal and hypnotic waves traveling with great velocity, electrifying and rejuvenating every cell structure of the body, so that next to love itself it becomes the most potent agency for courage, optimism, hope, health and longevity. The lack of love paves the way for carelessness, grumpiness and sickness. A great deal of hatred, envy, poverty, war and disease and the like are also due to lack of love."

Dr. Katzoff knows what he is talking about. Doctors of his type are not in the habit of making idle statements, especially before a body like the Bridgeport Philosophical Society. Nor would I presume to discuss the subject without some authentic first-hand information. I am willing to admit the truth of some of Dr. Katzoff's statements without flinching.

Bacteriologists, on the other hand, are not convincing in the attitude they take. No fair-minded jury, sitting in judgment on the fate of kissing, could conscientiously accept their testimony. The question, of course, would naturally arise as to whether they themselves do or do not kiss. If they do, they virtually condemn to violating the laws of hygiene which they themselves want so much to enforce; if they do not, they can scarcely be considered as knowing what they are talking about.

But bacteriologists are human, and they must practice what they preach. This, I believe, they would not be willing to do.

HERE COMES THE BRIDE

Detective stories have been one of the great diversions of serious minded people and it seems a crime that Sherlock Holmes has been allowed to retire.

Conan Doyle browses about the speculative fields of spiritualism, but Sherlock Holmes remains on the dusty street with his pipe and violin. Something ought to be done about the matter and, speaking for women who like exciting mystery, I hereby charge Conan Doyle with murderous neglect of one of the finest and most fascinating characters of all fiction.

The jury should be composed of women. Magazine editors say women are assiduous readers of detective stories. At any rate, I should like to be the forewoman. Things would go very hard with Sir Arthur. Sherlock may not actually be dead, but unless he

NIGHT SCHOOL HAS 150 REGISTERED FOR WORK

Men's and Women's Gymnasium Classes Are to be Organized

About 150 students are enrolled in the Burbank night school and about 120 attend regularly.

An English class for foreigners seems to be doing the most beneficial work for the community and Italians, Germans, Danish and Spanish are enrolled in it.

Upon the opening of the gym in the near future, two night gymnasium classes, one for business and professional men and one for women are to be formed.

The women's gymnasium work is to be given between seven and eight on Monday and Thursday nights, and the men's class between eight and nine on the same evenings.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

THAT the citizens that protect their own city and spend their money at home, are the class of men that the up-to-date business man wants to extend credit to when they need it.

THAT the trade at home man is the one who gets the best of everything.

THAT the live merchandiser never overlooks anything that he may turn to advantage for himself or his city. He is alert, always looking for ways and means of getting more business. He believes in cooperation between the salesman and the advertiser, understanding that by lack of such cooperation, the salesman can destroy all the business the advertising man can attract to his store.

THAT he knows that "Better Business Building City." He never hesitates to take part in any work that tends to build his city.

THAT every community has its civic slackers. Men who turn an indifferent eye to the live projects of a city. They have no more right to be indifferent to their city's efforts, hopes and ambitions, than to neglect their own family. For every citizen is a part of a city, and they, as a unit, are mostly responsible for what is done and what is left undone.

PAPER MONEY CANCELLED MOSCOW. — The State Bank announced that all paper money issued by the Zzarist, Krensky and first Soviet administration had been cancelled October 1. An exception was made in the case of 50,000, 100,000 and one, five and ten million ruble notes, which will not be declared worthless until the next January. The 50 million notes of the 1922 issue were also cancelled October 1.

were produced in court I would convict on circumstantial evidence. Sir Arthur has said he would like to do another story for the great detective, provided he could hit upon a good idea. I would like to suggest one.

Sherlock ought to divorce himself from his bachelorhood and that stuffy apartment in Baker street. It's about time a woman entered into his life, and if Sir Arthur won't mind I should like to introduce the great detective to Miss Fanastasia Beale.

Miss Beale is twenty-three, as fair as a flower, as sharp as a razor blade—and a lady detective. All great detectives are married. The heads of the Pinkerton, Dougherty, and Burns agencies are married. Besides that horrid flat in Baker street, needs a woman's touch. Fanastasia Beale may be the greatest of all women detectives, but she also knows how to keep house, and cook and light pipes and get out a man's house slippers. And listen.

It is not my intention to convert this column into a matrimonial bureau, but I do want Sherlock to meet Fanastasia. Her career as a detective has never been smeared with failure, but there are times when there are many mysteries to solve and many shrewd and desperate criminals to be apprehended. It delights my imagination to think what Sherlock and Fanastasia—I mean Mr. and Mrs. Sherlock Holmes of 221B Baker Street, London—could accomplish together.

Knowing Fanastasia, as I do, I know she would make a charming bride. Of course, I want to be the bridesmaid, even if Sherlock insists on having that fussy busybody, Dr. Watson, as best man.

Come, Sir Arthur, strike up the band. I want to see Sherlock go down the old church aisle with Fanastasia to the tune of—
"Here comes the Bride."

CRACKED WHEAT BREAD

(Courtesy Miss Peterson)

One cake compressed yeast, two cups milk, two cups boiling water, one cup cracked wheat, about eight cups whole wheat flour, three teaspoons salt, one tablespoon sugar, two tablespoons molasses, two tablespoons salad oil, one cup health bran.

Pour two cups boiling water over one cup cracked wheat, add one teaspoon salt, cover closely and set aside to cool.

Soften the yeast in two tablespoons lukewarm water to which one tablespoon sugar has been added.

Scald and cool the milk and when it is lukewarm add the softened yeast and two cups whole wheat flour. Beat well, cover closely and set in a warm place to rise. It will be light in about 40 minutes; then beat well again, add two teaspoons salt, two tablespoons molasses, two tablespoons oil, one cup bran, the cracked wheat which has been scalded and cooled, and enough whole wheat flour to make a dough stiff enough to knead. Knead well for about 10 minutes, cover and set in a warm place to rise. When it has doubled its bulk, knead it again and mold into loaves. Let rise until double in size, then bake in hot oven about five minutes, then gradually reduce the heat and finish baking in a moderate oven. Small loaves are done in about 30 minutes, while large loaves require 45 minutes or longer, according to size.

Reading dime novels had inspired young Buster Bill with thoughts of daring. Wishing to put his ideas into practice, he joined the Hooligan brigade, and began his nefarious career by attacking peaceful citizens at dead of night.

But he did it once too often, and found himself before the magistrate charged with knocking down a feeble old man.

"Young man," said the magistrate, "I am shocked and surprised at you for getting into trouble like this! Why do you always want to be fighting? Why don't you go for a soldier?"

"I did once, your honor," said
Bill ruefully, "and he nearly killed me!"

A young married woman, who had moved into the country, considered the keeping of hens a pleasant and profitable undertaking.

As she grew more absorbed in the pursuit her enthusiasm increased.

During one of her animated descriptions of her success, a friend inquired:

"Are your birds good laying hens?"

"Oh, yes," replied the henkeeper in a delighted tone. "They haven't laid a bad egg yet!"

er, broke a U. S. egg laying contest record by laying 324 eggs in 365 days, in the contest which over 265 eggs per hen. The av-

OBSERVER

There are two general schools of thought in the world regarding fundamental characteristics in human nature. One school is quite emphatic in declaring that the race is bad all the way through. They see no hope of recovery, but declare we are fast heading toward utter ruin, all because the race is rotten at the core and hopelessly lost. It is an awful indictment for it takes us all in regardless of our efforts in trying to live right and decent. Of course these good people who belong to this school hope to escape themselves. By some mental trick or belief they hope to land safely on solid ground. It is to be hoped they will not be disappointed, even if the rest of us fail to make a landing.

The other school declares that man by nature is good and not bad. That within him is a divine element that desires the good and the beautiful in life. It is claimed by this school that all that is wholesome and just in character and conduct is the result of the native goodness in man seeking to express itself in the lofty and idealistic, and hence love and justice, righteousness and integrity have built civilizations through the centuries by rising higher and higher toward the ideal man saw.

This school believes that the romance of the young, the mother's undying love for her brood, the father's protecting care for his family, are each and all the result of the divine in human nature. They see also that all social ties that bind communities together, that create a great national life and government, is a mark of the divine in man. It is believed by this school that all great literature, art, music, drama and all high and noble effort find their origin in the divine element in the human heart. The moral sense, spiritual hunger, devotion to truth and search after knowledge, all these prove that down deep in the being of man is a great goodness that is the redeeming hope of the world.

Regardless of this or that theory, one thing stands out most magnificently, and that is that man responds to the call of the good within him. If he is recognized as a being whose nature is lofty in high and noble endeavor, that he has within him power to redeem himself and the world, it is then he is inspired to apply himself with redoubled energy for great achievement in moral worth. That selfishness is strongly entrenched in human nature no one will question, but in great crises of the world's history man has demonstrated that he will go to any sacrifice, even to the yawning maw of hell, as men did during the world war in order to perpetuate to posterity the priceless inheritance of every individual and nation—Liberty!

ARMISTICE DAY '22

PEACE AND GOOD WILL TO ALL MANKIND

They Did Not Die in Vain

LINCOLN WAS WRONG WHEN HE SAID: "The world will soon forget what we say today," when he made his celebrated Gettysburg speech, honoring the brave heroes of the Civil War.

THE WORLD DID NOT FORGET WHAT HE SAID, and the world did not forget the heroes who wore the Blue and the Gray in our civil strife. Today the men who were the Blue and the Gray are walking hand in hand down the long, long trail to the mystery over yonder. They have forgotten, but the world has not forgotten their valor, for they fought for what they thought was a righteous settlement of their differences.

ALL OVER THIS BRIGHT, SUNNY CALIFORNIA, and from the Atlantic to the Pacific, the memory of our heroes will be honored, and the multitudes will drop flowers over their graves or silently shed tears for the boy who never came back, and a grateful people will pause long enough to honor and reverence their deeds of valor. We will not forget the boys who gave their lives, nor will we forget those who offered to give their lives to prevent the soldiers of the greatest tyrant of all times from invading our homes and putting the yoke of Autocracy around our necks.

ALL HAIL THE HEROES OF AMERICA! All the mothers, wives and sisters of the World War heroes. Freedom in America did not perish. The World War heroes made America safe for Americans—and the home of the Free.

THIS MESSAGE OF APPRECIATION is respectfully dedicated to the Heroes of the World War by the following patriotic business men and firms of Glendale who will close their places of business on ARMISTICE DAY in honor of the greatest body of men the world has produced—the American Soldiers of the World War!
